Gardening Days

These are the times that make gardeners feel that only gardening keeps them wholly sane. And, thanks to a capricious beginning to winter, there is plenty gardening for all throughout the middle west. We have lost five big trees in our south yard alone this winter. And naturally a good many shrubs and perennials. But the iris loss is amazingly small.

Indispensable Whites and Yellows

The iris loss that will show up most is in the whites and yellows so necessary for a complete picture. Unfortunately most of the finest of these are tender or partly tender. For years I suspected Easter Morn and for years it came up smiling. So I was about to say "completely hardy here" and then the Armistice Day freeze carried away most of my stock. Sweet Alibi also nearly perished. Snow King must be moved from the hardy into the semi-tender category. Of the new whites Matterhorn seems entirely hardy. So, of course, are Venus di Milo and Crystal Beauty though not so new.

Of the newer yellows, I have now two plants left of my stock of Lady Paramount and some California customer is due for a grand extra. Happy Days, Ming Yellow, Golden Treasure, Dore and Naranja seem to be partly tender while California Gold, Jasmania, Sunburst seem entirely hardy. My one plant of Spungold seems entirely hardy but of course one cannot judge from one plant.

Contributing Circumstances

The above judgments are in all cases made from several plantings of all varieties mentioned. Of course plants that are entirely hardy may be lost in winter if the cover is too heavy at a certain spot or if the plant is heaved up, etc., etc. But if a variety consistently dies out in different locations, it is fair to say that it is at least partly tender.

Other Colors

The only absolutely tender variety, of colors other than white and yellow, seems to be Pale Moonlight. Shining Waters, Missouri and Amigo seemed to be semi-tender. A surprise was the number of reds that proved semi-tender. Junaluska, Cheerio, Garden Magic and E. B. Williamson all developed unsuspected weakness of resistance. Of course by far the majority of blues, purples and red and pinks were absolutely hardy.

Promise of Much Bloom

Because of these faithfals the garden promises to be filled with bloom. Besides the sweep of bloom upon which we have come to depend there will be the detail interest of a few blooms each on about thirty-five or forty new varieties. All of you who can come to the garden are cordially invited here about May 20th.

April 16, 1941

"Last year I ordered twenty-four iris from you and planted them and they seemed to live and this winter they seemed to die, just a leaf now and then, but now, lady, they are gorgeous. I think every one is going to bloom; I practically live by their bed side.

"Will you please send me two new catalogs; one for my sister as she will borrow mine if I don't get her one. She bought her iris locally and mine are so much better than hers."

Mrs. J. L. S., Shreveport, La.

HOW TO GROW IRISES

These notes are the fruit of trials and errors in the middle west. If your climate and soil differ from mine, you should adjust my suggestions to your conditions.

★ Soil and Situation—A neutral or natural limestone soil is best but a slightly acid soil may be treated with ground limestone. Never use lime unless your soil is definitely acid, as lime does more harm than good in neutral soil. Sun or part shade are recommended, with part shade being the choice location in regions in which the sun is very hot during the blooming time.

★ Planting—Plant with the rhizome well covered with earth; about a half inch pressed down firmly is best. Water well but infrequently if the weather is hot and dry. (I never water new plantings because I haven't the water.) After the roots are well down, keep the hoe shiney and the surface of the soil dusty.

PINK SATIN (J. Sass) Light pink self of truest color and satiny sheen; the best branching of any pink; early to midseason; tall----- .15

PIUTE (Thomas) Appears to be a true red without any blue in it; mid-season; tall ----- 1.50

PLUIE D'OR (Cay) Golden yellow with flowers of good size; a two-year-old planting is a marvel; Dykes medal; midseason; tall----- .15

POLICHENELLE (Cay) Buff standards with blue shadows; the falls purple with a reddish glow; comes to its best in cloudy weather; mid-season; tall ----- .15

PRAIRIE GOLD (H. P. Sass) Brilliant, almost brassy yellow; glistens like buttercups; midseason; short-----3 for .25

PRESIDENT PILKINGTON (Cay) Large flowered buff and lavender blend; a taller, larger, darker Dolly Madison; midseason; tall----- .15

HOW TO GROW IRISES

- ★ Fertilizers—Superphosphate and wood ashes are the best inorganic fertilizers for irises. If the soil lacks humus, well rotted manure, peat moss or tobacco stems are helpful.
- ★ Leaf Spot—Very little is known about leaf spot except that, while it is unsightly, it does little or no injury to the plants. Removing and burning all old foliage helps control it.
- ★ Root Rot—Cut out the soft tissue and dust with coppercarbonate.
- ★ Borer—A dust spray of one part Dutox and four parts cheap flour applied spring and fall, and frequent transplantings will eliminate borer and prevent reinfection from your neighbor.
